General Comments & Recommendations: (kindly mention intern potentials, areas of further development or technical constraints encountered during the Internship period)

Intern has some good potential in designing good-looking, user-friendly front end, and he also has a sense for searching and finding some good insights when it comes to data analytics. However, when it comes to reporting his deliverables, he does not use enough visualizations to clearly present his ideas.

Do you think similar candidates would fit in the Organization culture and qualify for job needs?
